Miniature —

HARDY

ROSES

Beauty - Novelty - Interest - Fun

IN A REAL CUTE FORM

These Miniature Roses are enjoying vastly increased popularity and we predict that as they become better known, they will become the pet of nearly every gardener. They have been popular with the more serious gardener for several years but the supply has not been large enough to supply everyone. Now with expanded propagating facilities, and the development of a very extensive selection of varieties, you'll want to be in the act too.

Their diminutive size attracts a great deal of attention wherever they are shown. It also adapts them ideally to indoor pot culture and they are most desirable for outdoor pot and window box culture. In the small outdoor garden they make a beautiful showing, while in the outdoor garden of any size they are ideal for small borders or specimen planting. They may be handled under the same conditions as the usual garden Hybrid Tea Roses and have proven themselves to be just as hardy. You won't want to pass these up this spring!

BEGONIA SEEDS

Growing Tuberous Begonias from seed can be both interesting and profitable. Plantings made in late Oct. and Nov. can be developed into nice plants by April for pots showing some bloom through May. Planted Dec. through Feb. makes nice plants for summer bedding to sell in May to early July. Seeds are extremely fine and are planted without covering. Germination 65 to 75 degrees and is somewhat varied in the different types and varieties. Some varieties of seed may not be available until late Sept.

REX BEGONIAS: FANCY LEAF MIXED.

This group is rather rare, the seeds being of most limited supply. They are highly prized for their bright and varied colored foliage, the flowers being of little consequence. These seeds are from a world famous collection. Pkt., about 300 seeds, $2.00

CONNOISSEUR'S NOVELTY BLEND:

This is a formula blend that we make ourselves. It contains a most varied mixture of all types, fibrous, tuberous and fancy leaf varieties. Ideal for the small grower or the experimentally minded. Packet, about 300 seeds, $2.00

The Fibrous Rooted Begonias are one of the most satisfactory groups of plants that may be grown from seed for blooming pot plants and their popularity as summer bedding plants is again on the increase. They usually are quite simple to grow but require a germinating temperature of 65 to 75 degrees and a night growing temperature of 60 degrees. The selection of flower and foliage coloring is almost unlimited. Germination time 2 to 3 weeks.
